This year the Teaching and Learning Spring Conference and the Student Success Data Summit have combined into one event!

The goal of the conference is to:
- share data related to student learning and success;
- leverage the campus community’s collective skills and knowledge about teaching, learning, assessment, research, and administrative processes to advance student learning and success;
- and support the entire university community in our efforts.

Registration Required: Open until April 30, 2019
For questions regarding the conference, please contact Patti Stewart at ps@msu.edu.
